

Staying connected, but in a different way

Almost 10 years ago EIGE hosted the first online discussion on the new and innovative collaboration platform we created: EuroGender. Ever since, EuroGender grew in number of users and kept evolving the functionalities it provided.

The last couple of years we all experienced a major change on the way we work. Most of us had to manage our tasks, the activities within our organisations and external parties, using a plethora of available tools for online collaboration.

For a platform like EuroGender, it is difficult to keep-up with the evolution in today's work environment. We believe that developing and maintaining our own collaboration tool in-house is not an area EIGE should continue investing. We have decided to replace EuroGender and collaborate with the gender equality community in different and more innovative ways.

Therefore, the activities in EuroGender will close on 15 September 2022.

Please follow our website and social media accounts to stay connected with what is new at EIGE.
