MEB drive APP550

The next electric drive generation for the ID. family is now being launched. With the new APP550 rear-wheel drive, Volkswagen's electric model family will receive a completely newly developed power unit. In future, this will offer higher performance combined with improved efficiency for the ID. models. The ID. family will therefore benefit both in terms of power and increased range. Volkswagen is planning to deliver the first vehicles with the new drive generation in a 210 kW (286 PS) version from the end of the year.
